The Third Annual CSAIL Computer Architecture Workshop

Friday, September 19, 2003

Gloucester, Massachusetts

congregate
COMMUNICATE
INNOVATE

Join us for the third annual CSAIL Computer Architecture Workshop on Friday, September 19, 2003 in Gloucester, Massachusetts.

The goal of this all day workshop is for the various computer architecture groups in CSAIL to meet in a casual environment, learn about each other's research, and encourage interaction among groups. New students are especially welcome. This will be an excellent opportunity for those students interested in computer architecture research to meet the members of the computer architecture community at Tech Square and hear what's happening at MIT.

The Workshop will take place at the Ocean View Inn & Resort in Gloucester, Massachusetts, beginning at 10:00 AM and ending at 7:00 PM. The Workshop includes breakfast, breaks, lunch, and a New England lobsterbake overlooking the beautiful coastline of the Atlantic Ocean.

The bus leaves 200 Tech Square promptly at 9:00 AM and will return at approximately 8:30 PM.

If you are interested in attending the Workshop, please register at http://csg.lcs.mit.edu/caw03. The deadline for registration is September 10.

For general inquiries please call 617.253.9620 or email Michael Gordon at mgordon@mit.edu.